CALL OF THE CALENDAR

Fixing Days for Trials of Various Causes-Criminals Before the Court-Minor Notes.

BUTTE, Jan. 11.—The court room in Department I. was erowded this morning with defendants in criminal cases, the occasion being the weekly call of the calendar. Owing to the absence of Mr. Haldorn some of the most important cases were passed, he being the attorney for the defendants. The appeal case of Harry Brennan, charged with assault and battery, was set for Friday the 27th; Frank Murray, assault with intent to kill, Jan. 23; Babe Simington, assault with a deadly weapon, Jan. 24; N. Crapicuci, assault, Jan. 24; May Wilson, new trial for grand larceny, Jan. 25, subject to a motion for continuance; Philip Laun, receiving stolen property, Jan. 26.

continuance; Philip Laun, receiving stolen property, Jan. 26.

Nellie Doyle, charged with grand larceny, was not in court and a bench warrant was issued for her. Sadie Wilson and Mattie Williams were also absent, but their attorney read a telegram from them at San Francisco saying that they would be here by to-morrow if the trains make connections. These cases were continued until the next call of the calendar. The Pettit attempted murder case was also continued until next week.

The First Case on Trial.

The First Case on Trial.

The first case to be tried at this term of court, and the first before the present judge was the appeal case of George Simms, a colored waiter, who was convicted in the lower court for stealing a dollar umbrella from a woman at the McDermott hotel. The jury in the case today was composed of R. H. Beegan, Denis D. Murphy, Daniel Drew, Archie McIntyre, Edward Blitzner, Edwin Wright, Thomas Fletcher, Thomas Dillon, J. A. Elliett, George F. Boggs, A. M. Day and Albert Minger.

Simms was brought from the jail, where he was held on another charge of grand larceny. At the trial he admitted taking the umbrella, but claimed he thought it belonged to another colored man with whom he had been rooming. The defense also introduced evidence to show that the owner of the umbrella put no value on it, as she had it for a number of years, and in the first place cost her only $1.50. The case, however, cost the county several hundred dollars. A. Fred Wey of the McDermott was the prosecuting witness. The jury put no faith in the coon's story and found him guilty again.

Other Criminal Cases.

The case of Andy McKenzie, convicted of running stock off the range, was by agreement continued for another week before a bench warrant will be issued.

agreement continued for another week before a bench warrant will be issued.

The appeal case of L. Dowd, who was convicted in the lower court of assault and battery in knocking a boy named Morgan down the staire of the Salvation army barracks, was tried to a jury of 12 in the district court this afternoon. His defense was that he accidentally pushed the boy down in trying to protect himself from the assaults of a gang of hoodlums. The jury acquitted Dowd.

The next on trial was an appeal case of Gordon Sherman, who was arrested some time last fall by Officer Wilson for using abusive language, and was convicted in the police court for resisting an officer. It grew cut of a beating he received by the officer, and for which the latter was called before the police commission for an explanation. The trial to-day was not completed when court adjourned and will be resumed to-morrow.

The old case of the city against Wong Tuck Kim, the Chinese "doctor," had been set for trial to-day, but on motion of City Attorney Cotter the case was dismissed. The Chinaman had been convicted and fined in the lower court for practicing medicine without first having obtained a permit from the city health board. Kim took an appeal and the decision to-day by the court decides the case in favor of the Chinaman.

CAPTAIN LUGG'S LUCK. The Noted Detective Arrested

The Noted Detective Arrested on a Charge of Vagrancy.

BUTTE, Jan. 11.—Captain W. H. Lugg thinks he is the victim of a systematic persecution on the part of the police, because, he says, they are always looking for a chance to arrest him. The captain, it will be remembered, arrived in the city some time last summer and introduced himself as a detective, and that the object of his visit was to run down the murder. of his visit was to run down the murder-ers of Officer Jordon. He claimed to have of his visit was to run down the murderers of Officer Jordon. He claimed to have an experience as a detective extending over eriod of a quarter of a century, but in spite of this, it seems he failed to acquire that secretiveness characteristic of all successful detectives, as he was known to almost every body in the city within two days after his arrival. He had a partner, and the two soon succeeded in incurring the enmity of the police force by spying on beats and cutting up other capers calculated to arouse the anger of the local custodians of the peace. Twice the men were arrested and both times they were discharged. Finally, however, the captain was again arrested and convicted of vagrancy. Since then he has been staying a great deal of time at the office of a lawyer, where he claims to be employed. Today he was arrested again on the same charge and placed in jail. The officer who made the arrest says that Lugg has lately made a practice of "striking" people for small sums of money and that he had carried the practice to such an extent that people began to complain against him.

THE DAILY ROUND-UP. Cases Before the Police Magistrate Yes-

BUTTE, Jan. 11.—Larry Keene and Harry Williams, two of the men who took active which serve parts in the recent fake foot race by which Fred Hample dropped $50, were again arraigned in the police court to-day to be examined on a charge of cheating. For some reason it was decided to continue the case again, this time indefinitely.

J. F. Williams and William Howard stood charged with disturbing the peace in one of the gambling houses. While both claimed that they had merely been "chawing the rag" when arrested, Williams entered a plea of guilty and was taxed 85 and costs. Howard insisted that he had not been guilty of any disturbance and pleaded not guilty.

The Murderer of Tim Quinn.

Butte, Jan. 11.—Although Dan Holland, the slayer of Timothy Quinn, has been confined in jail on a charge of murder no information was filed against him until to-day when a move was made in that direction. Thomas Richards, recently a deputy under ex-Sheriff Lloyd, filed a complaint in Judge McMurphey's court this morning against Holland, charging him with murder in the first degree in that he had wilfully, maliciously and feloniously killed Quinn on Dec. 29, 1892. A plea of not guilty was entered and Holland's attorney, J. W. Cotter, de manded a preliminary examination for his client. The court set the hearing for to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock. Katle Higgins' Possessions When She Was Called to the Big Unknown-Mr. Boyd In Hard Luck.

BUTTE, Jan. 11.—Thomas Moore, an old rancher, living near Divide, was arrested this morning and this afternoon examined this morning and this afternoon examined as to his sanity, and sent to the asylum this evening. The complaint was made by the old man's son. The jury in the case was composed of Doctors Gunn, Howard and Ellis. Mrs. Moore, wife of the afflicted man, testified that he has been mentally unbalanced for about five months, but had never shown any violence until vesterday, when he threatened to kill months, but had never shown any violence until yesterday, when he threatened to kill her. For several months he has refused to recognize Mrs. Moore and said she was not his wife, but an impostor. He wanted her to leave him so that his wife could return. Several times he tried to force her to leave him, and yesterday it culminated in his attempt to kill her.

James and Mat Moore, the old man't in his attempt to kill her.

James and Mat Moore, the old man's sons, said that they first noticed that he was "a little off" some time last summer, when he imagined himself the owner of a large and rich mine, which he said was inhabited by ghosts and fairies, who kept him out of it. The fairies had located the claim for him. but he was afraid of them. At one time he was lost for several days, and a search was made for him. He was found in the mountains standing by a prospect hole, watching the fairies. He also had a box full of them by his side, and thought the chips on the ground were fairies also, and begged the men not to step on them. He also saw ghosts in many other places. Moore claimed to be controlled by spirits, and that he had to do as they commanded him.

The unfortunate man himself denied that there was the least thing wrong about him and denied the fairy story, but insisted that Mrs. Moore was not his wife, but some other weman who did not bear the least resemblance to his wife. She was keeping his wife away from him. He thought the woman who claimed to be his wife was named Annie Kramer, but he was not sure, and asked the jury to inquire of her if that was not her name. He knew where his wife was, as the spirit of a friend told him where to find her.

A friend of Katie Higgins, also known

A friend of Katie Higgins, also known as Mrs. Rheims, who died on Mercury street a few days ago, represented to the public administrator this morning that at the time of her death she had a g watch and some diamond jewelry, valued at least at $300, which was appropriated at least at $300, which was appropriated by a woman on East Broadway, who also took charge of the dead woman's child. The administrator's informant also said that the woman had offered to pay for a decent burial for Mrs. Rheims, but after the undertaker had made preparations for the funeral in accordance with the request the woman changed her mind and said the the county might pay for it. The public administrator will probably apply to the court for letters of administration on the dead woman's estate, and an effort will be made to find her relatives and ask them to take charge of the six-year-old child.

The woman accused of having appropriated the dead woman's property says that

The woman accused of having appropri-ated the dead woman's property says that Mrs. Rheims had long ago pawned all the jewelry and other property she had and that it is still in "soak," and at the time of her death had less than $13 in money, which was part of a sum contributed by friends.

Mrs. Nellie May is out on a $200 cash bond for robbing a man named Boyd of $150 and he is in jail in default of a $100 ond to insure his attendance as witnes against the woman when the case is called for trial. In view of these facts the fol-lowing little note from the woman may be of interest both to Mr. Boyd and the offi-cers: "Please stop the daily paper now sent to me as I am about to leave town."
